Police Chief Defends Actions in Arrest Of Colored Veteran

By the Associated Press
BATESBURG, S. C., Sept. 27.—Police Chief Lyndon L. Shull of Batesburg, charged by the Justice Department with beating and torturing a Negro war veteran, told newsmen today he was "no harsher than was necessary to complete the arrest."

The Justice Department filed a criminal information in Federal Court in Columbia, S. C., yesterday alleging that Chief Shull had "beaten and tortured" Isaac Woodward, Jr., of the Bronx last February 12 in violation of the Federal civil rights statute.

It further charged that the veteran was "permanently blind as a result of the alleged beating."

Chief Shull explained that he arrested the man at a bus station where he said the veteran was creating a disturbance. He said the Negro apparently had been drinking after being discharged at Augusta, Ga., earlier in the day.

Tried to Take Blackjack. "I hit him across the front of the head," Chief Shull said, "after he attempted to take away my blackjack. I grabbed it away from him and cracked him across the head."

The police chief said the veteran's eyes were swollen the next day when he was brought into Recorder's Court and sentenced to 30 days or a fine of $50 for disorderly conduct.

The defendant paid the fine. Chief Shull said, and after a doctor suggested he should be taken to a hospital, "I drove him" to the veterans' hospital in Columbia.

Chief Shull said he reported the incident to the FBI because the Negro was still in uniform and that "after they investigated they told me to keep quiet about it."

Questioned by Justice Agents. He said that later he was questioned by agents of the Department. United States Attorney Claud N. Sapp said yesterday in Columbia that the court would notify Chief Shull officially of the filing of the information and set bond for his release until the November term of court.

At New York Woodward said, "I can't feel too good about it" when told of the Justice Department's action against Chief Shull.

"I have more sympathy for him than he had for me," he told newsmen. "However, I feel that he should be brought to justice."

Dean Doyle Reports On Latin Americans
Latin Americans are flocking to American-sponsored cultural centers in their countries to learn English, Dr. Henry Gratian Doyle, dean of Columbian College of George Washington University, said in a report released today.

Dr. Doyle made a tour of seven South and Central American countries as chairman of the committee on grants of the American Council on Education. The council administers distribution of approximately $120,000 annually to these Latin American schools and centers by the State Department.

More than 2,100 adults are enrolled in English classes in Mexico City, and more than 500 students in San Jose, Costa Rica, the report said. The situation is similar in centers in Colombia, Panama, Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala.

The American practice of co-education is beginning to win approval in Latin America, Dr. Doyle reported. At first doubtful of the propriety of mixed classes, the local educator said the Central and South Americans now recognize the best way to develop wholesome relationships is to permit boys and girls to go to school together.

Navy Trained Russians to Use Norden Sight and Radar in '44

By the Associated Press
The Navy disclosed yesterday that Russian flyers were trained at Elizabeth City, N. C., in 1944 to operate the Norden bomb sight, the latest radar equipment and long-range flying boats, all turned over to Russia under lease-lend.

Hitherto secret records showed the plan, known as "Project Zebra," originally called only for "checking out" Russian crews on lease-lend twin engine PBN-1 Catalina patrol bombers, but ended with Navy experts giving 80 hours of flight instructions to the Russians.

After teaching the Russians, most of whom had no seaplane experience and had flown only single engine planes, the records said, Navy and British Royal Air Force pilots flew the bombers to Iceland, Alaska or Persia and let the Russians take them the rest of the way.

The records, stamped "secret" on every page, were declassified a week ago, but no announcement was made at the time by the Navy.

In all, 150 Russians were trained to fly the American naval planes and 138 bombers were sent over the three routes to Russia.

One bomber which left Elizabeth City October 31, 1944, in the words of the document, was "the first to be equipped with the Norden bomb sight, and it and all subsequent planes also were equipped with a new type radio and radar gear, necessitating additional training for Russian crews."

The three routes, all starting from Elizabeth City, were:
To Gander, Newfoundland; Reykjavik, Iceland, and Murmansk.
To Eagle Mountain Lake, Tex.; San Diego, Calif.; Seattle, Kodiak, Alaska, and then to Vladivostok or Amadry, Siberia.

To San Juan, Puerto Rico; Trinidad, Belem and Natal, Brazil; and 138 bombers were sent over the three routes to Russia.
